OPPORTUNITY FOR PLACEMENT FELLOWSHIP AT THE BRITISH COUNCIL

As part of their Placement Fellowship Scheme the AHRC and ESRC welcomes applications from academics interested in working in a research capacity with the British Council. The Scheme encourages arts and humanities researchers to spend time within a partner organisation to undertake policy relevant research and to develop the research skills of partner employees. This Fellowship will be jointly funded by the AHRC and British Council while the Fellow remains employed by his/her institution.

Project Title
'Belief ' in Cultural Relations
Length of Fellowship
6 – 12 months
Proposed start date
To be agreed with the successful applicant
Location of Fellowship
British Council (London and/or Manchester)
Background
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Up to one-year Fellowship for a researcher in the arts and humanities to work within British Council on 'belief' in the context of international intercultural dialogue.</li> <li>• The successful candidate will be given opportunity to gain first-hand experience of influencing policy thinking and practice at senior levels in the British Council (including working alongside Dr Fern Elsdon-Baker, Programme Director, Belief In Dialogue; Professor Mike Hardy, Director Intercultural Dialogue; Reena Johl, Global Programme Manger, Belief In Dialogue and Catherine Feischi, Director of Counterpoint)</li> </ul>

- The British Council 'Belief in Dialogue' is an interdisciplinary and cross sectoral (policy, schools, higher education, media and public) intercultural dialogue programme. It will actively seek to develop the necessary baselines and ongoing research frameworks needed to understand the misconceptions held by publics, media professionals and academic communities about others cultural perspectives that can act as blocks to engagement with other cultures, perspectives or world views. A significant facet of the project development and delivery will be to identify international educational resource and content knowledge gaps, and to widen the participation in academic debates to both media professional and public audiences.
- Areas of focus will be: the global context of tensions surrounding a perceived rise in religiosity in relation to geopolitical debates; European and North American dialogue around migration, integration and diversity; international perceptions of openness in society and secular society; international debates around science and religion; and unpicking clash of civilisations discourses within academic and media dialogue.
- The British Council Belief in Dialogue Programme currently consists of five interrelated project areas but the focus of this Fellowship would cut across three of their areas: Our Shared Europe; Transatlantic Intellectual Bridge; Belief and Science.

Benefits to arts and humanities researchers/AHRC

- It will provide an opportunity for a researcher in the arts and humanities to gain first-hand experience of policy influence in a highly respected independent cultural relations organisation. It is intended that AHRC staff will also benefit by gaining contacts with relevant experts in cultural relations to support the AHRC Translating Cultures theme. For information about this theme please see the AHRC website:

<http://www.ahrc.ac.uk/FundingOpportunities/Pages/translatingcultures.aspx>

<http://www.ahrc.ac.uk/FundingOpportunities/Pages/translatingcultures.aspx>

- As well as the benefits to the successful candidate, the wider academic community should benefit through knowledge shared through seminars, the final report and publications.
- The Fellowship will contribute to the AHRC Delivery Plan objective of contributing to “cultural diplomacy” [Para 2.10.1 AHRC Delivery Plan 2010-15] and promoting research that provides a “better informed approach to communications with partner and competitor nations” to help ensure that the “UK sustains its place in a globalised world” (Para 2.1.1 AHRC Delivery Plan 2010-15).

Benefits to the British Council

- The British Council helps to share knowledge and ideas around the world in order to increase the understanding, engagement and trust of people from every culture and works in over 100 countries worldwide. For 76 years it has worked in partnership with businesses, national associations and institutions, professional networks, and government ministries to encourage greater cultural, scientific and economic cooperation.
- The British Council is developing Belief in Dialogue as a new focus for its work in intercultural dialogue. This signifies a new strategic direction for its work in this area. For the British Council it is important that its work is supported by a rigorous approach that combines academic credibility with a strong policy focus. It is anticipated that the report that will result from the Fellowship will be of significant value both to the British Council in its future consideration of issues arising around the role of belief in its global context, but also of direct value to international policy-makers in related fields.

Tasks

- The Fellowship will explore the recent use of belief as a major principle in international cultural relations, in the context of a changing view of what role belief can play in policy discussions around not only intercultural dialogue but also issues such as language skills, migration, integration, diversity and openness in society. The main tasks would be to:
  1. Review recent intercultural dialogue literature to identify common meanings and uses of the term 'belief' as opposed to interfaith action;
  2. Within the wider geopolitical context of reciprocal integration, community cohesion and diversity in society to explore the context of discussions around pluralism from a intra/inter/extra faith context within the North African and/or Near Eastern context. A particular focus here could be alternate concepts of or historical development of secular stances within a wider non-European context.
  3. Consider whether and how 'belief' can be developed as a core value in contemporary cultural relations, and how important it might be in developing a new approach to future intercultural dialogue activities and projects.

Outputs of the Fellowship

- The fellow will be expected to prepare a report, covering the areas outlined above, which the British Council would plan to publish online and distribute through its usual mechanisms. This report will be directly feed into the ongoing programme development for Belief in Dialogue.
- Further scholarly outputs such as journal articles and conference presentations are expected either during or following the fellowship, as appropriate, and may also include the development of content aimed at postgraduate students and for public dissemination.
- AHRC require fellows to submit a short end of award report within one month of the end of the placement stating the benefits of the fellowship and any short or longer term impacts that are anticipated. A short report is also required from the fellow's line manager.

- Fellows are encouraged to hold seminars during their placement to pass on their skills and knowledge to other arts and humanities researchers, the partner organisation and to other Government departments where appropriate.

Background and skills required

- The British Council's work is essentially multi-disciplinary, and the Fellow's own academic experience might be in one of a number of disciplines therefore applications are welcome from researchers in all areas of the Arts & Humanities. Applicants should be actively engaged in research and be of postdoctoral standing with at least five years substantial experience.
- Whilst the work is likely to be largely analytical, it will be important that the person appointed is able to work across disciplinary boundaries and to develop an awareness and understanding of current debates and issues from a range of disciplines or perspectives<sup>1</sup> that relate to the work. The fellow will however be working alongside and be able to consult with, academics from a variety of specialisms both within and beyond the arts and humanities.

Working with the British Council/AHRC

- The person appointed to the Fellowship will work with the British Council's Programme Director for Belief in Dialogue who will support and oversee the project. It is hoped that this proximity to the Programme Director will encourage a bi-directional knowledge exchange and a close insight for the Fellow into contemporary intercultural dialogue programmes. The Fellow is likely to divide their time between working from their home HEI and working at the British Council's offices – either in London or Manchester.

- The British Council and AHRC will identify a small advisory group, consisting of British Council staff, external advisory academics from a range of disciplines and AHRC staff, who will support and review the work as it progresses, and who will be available for consultation and interview by the fellow as part of their work, if needed.
- The Fellow will also spend one day a month visiting the AHRC offices in Swindon to work with AHRC staff (Languages & Literatures team) working on Translating Cultures. The Fellow will also build contacts with UK researchers working on the emerging theme.

Joint Electronic Submissions (Je-S)

All applications under this scheme must be made through the Research Council’s Joint Electronic Submissions (Je-S) process. You must have a Je-S account to gain access to the system. If you are unsure about this you should contact your Research Office for further guidance. Further information can be found on the ESRC website at <http://www.esrc.ac.uk/funding-and-guidance/guidance/applicants/Je-S-electronic-applications.aspx>.

Before creating your application

- Research applications may only be made on Research Councils Joint Electronic Submission (Je-S) Forms.
- Please note that the deadline for Research Organisation submission of proposals is 4.00pm on 28 June 2011. It is recommended that you allow sufficient time for completion of the Research Organisation submission process checks/authorisation.
- Your application will actually be sent to Je-S/ESRC from the submitter pool at your Research Organisation. In other words, there is a further layer of administration between your submission of the application and the application being submitted to the ESRC, via Je-S. This Research Organisation's submission route usually includes both an approver (ie Head of Department) and submitter pool (ie central finance office) and the ESRC cannot accept responsibility for any delay which may occur as a consequence. We strongly advise applicants to secure confirmation from their relevant administrator that the application has been successfully submitted to the Je-S team. (see also 'section 4. Tracking Proposal').

Je-S Registration

- If you want to submit proposals electronically, first check that the organisation through which you intend to submit the proposal has completed the Je-S registration process
- Only Je-S account holders may be named as principal applicants. If you are in any doubt as to your registration status, you are strongly advised to seek timely confirmation from your Research Organisation's administration or Je-S Helpdesk. Please note that only the submitting organisation needs to have obtained Je-S registration.
- All main UK Research Organisations are already registered. If you are in any doubt, you are strongly advised to seek timely confirmation of your Research Organisation's registration status from your Research Organisation's administration.

Organisations needing to register for Je-S should contact the Je-S Helpdesk (see below). Users wishing to access the Je-S system for the first time are asked to check with their central administration on the status of the organisation's Je-S registration before pursuing the option of creating an account through the Je-S system. Organisations must comply with ESRC funding eligibility regulations before Je-S registration can proceed. People without a Je-S account should apply for registration through Je-S helpdesk JeSHelp@rcuk.ac.uk. We strongly advise potential applicants to apply to register, if necessary, as early as possible.

Please be assured that the information you provide regarding your date of birth, gender, ethnic origin and any disability will not be divulged to those involved in the assessment of any proposal you might submit to the ESRC. These data are for collection and analysis at an aggregate rather than individual level to allow us to examine our data on proposals and grants by a number of key variables and to review whether we might be disadvantaging certain groups. As a public body we are required to collect and publish such statistical data. For these reasons we would ask you to complete the relevant Je-S 'MyDetails' data fields to help us in meeting these requirements.

There are two types of Je-S accounts that can be held;

Je-S registered account – (which Je-S Helpdesk has verified the account holder details via the submitting organisation) The account holder can be selected as any person associated against a proposal (ie PI/COI, staff member, project partner etc). The account holder can prepare/submit proposals

Je-S unregistered account – The account holder can be selected as staff member project partner or referee against a proposal. The account holder can prepare proposals (and submit if a fellowship proposal).

How will your knowledge and experience be applied to undertake the Fellowship?

You should give examples of any previous engagement with policymakers that is relevant to this call.

A detailed description of the proposed research methods if relevant to this project. Particular care should be taken to explain any innovation in the methodology or where you intend to develop new methods.

Where possible describe the potential impact of the Fellowship on policy or practice.

2.15.2 Justification of Resources

It is only necessary to justify Travel & Subsistence costs claimed, so a statement of maximum of 2-sides of A4 setting out these costs should be submitted.

The Scheme allows for Travel & Subsistence costs of up to a maximum of £6k over the duration of the Fellowship.

2.15.3 Pathways to Impact – Maximum of 2 sides of A4

The Pathways to Impact is your opportunity to describe how the potential impacts of this Fellowship will be realised. This is specific to users and beneficiaries of the Fellowship who are outside of the academic research community, for example the public sector, commercial private sector, third sector or the wider public in general.

In describing plans to maximise impact, applicants should consider what is achievable and expected for a Fellowship of this nature. If your work is oriented towards academic beneficiaries only, then you should state that a Pathways to Impact Plan is "not applicable" and briefly set out the reasoning behind this. Where this is the case, applicants should note that while ESRC recognises the value of this type of research, reviewers may comment on the applicant's assessment during consideration of the application. Impact can take many forms, manifest at different stages in the research process, and be promoted in different ways. It may be helpful to consider impact in respect of the short term (during the currency of the award), medium term (up to one year afterwards), and the long-term. A statement about ESRC's expectations of the research it funds is at www.esrc.societytoday.ac.uk/esrcexpectations

Please detail how the proposed Fellowship project will be managed to engage users and beneficiaries and increase the likelihood of impacts. When completing the attachment, please consider and address the following if appropriate to a project of this nature; methods for communications and engagement, collaboration and exploitation in the most effective and appropriate manner. Also detail your track record in this area and the costs of these activities.

For further detailed guidance please access the relevant ESRC specific attachment Je-S helptext page

2.15.3 CV

A CV for the applicant must be included. This should include contact details, qualifications (including class and subject), academic and professional posts held since graduation, a list of the most relevant and recent publications, and a record of research funded by the ESRC and other bodies. This should not exceed two A4 sides.

2.15.4 List of Publications

The bibliography for references cited in the proposal should be attached.

2.15.5 Head of Department Statement

The Applicant's Head of Department should complete a statement in support of the application. The statement should confirm that the Applicant will be released from university duties for the duration of the Fellowship.

2.16 Additional document actions

After all expected sections have been completed, you can select Validate document which will indicate (below the Je-S document menu) any missing mandatory or incomplete sections that need to be addressed.

Once the proposal has been successfully validated, select Submit document from Document Menu. This action submits the proposal to the authorising facility within your organisation (as explained in the Registration section above). Please note that the proposal must be formally submitted by your organisation before 4pm on the 28 June 2011.

Strategic Priorities

ESRC's strategic plan identifies seven areas of strategic challenge for economic and social research. These challenges build on existing research, help consolidate knowledge but also recognise emerging key areas for social science. You must consider if your research project falls within one or more of ESRC's Strategic Challenges

Applicants should note that no funds are 'ring fenced' for these Strategic Challenge areas and applications that fall outside of these areas will not be disadvantaged. The only criteria for funding will be the overall scientific quality of the application and its potential for high scientific and/or user impact.

User Involvement

If 'Users' have been/will be engaged with your research project, please specify the nature of their engagement. Users' are those individuals, groups or organisations who have an interest in or may benefit from the research. 'Users' may be from the public sector, commercial private sector, third sector or the wider public in general. Engaging 'Users' in your research from its conception and development through to the dissemination stage is likely to increase the impacts achieved.

3. Tracking proposal

Once you have selected Submit document the proposal will be processed through your internal organisation's approver/submitter pool.

To enable you to determine when your proposal has been formally submitted to council via Je-S (and therefore whether a call deadline was met) this can be tracked through the 'View Submission Path' and 'Document History' links in the Document Menu of your proposal, via the Management section on the right hand side of the screen.
